

RCE Kill Tracker — Terms of Service

Effective date: October 8, 2026

Operator: AAApocalypse3x

1. Support contact: <https://www.aaapocalypse3x.com>, aaapocalypse.rce@gmail.com

1. Acceptance and eligibility

These Terms govern your use of RCE Kill Tracker (“the Bot”), operated by the operator identified above. By using the Bot, you agree to these Terms. If you disagree, stop using it.

You must meet Discord’s minimum age requirements and any applicable legal requirements. Where required, a parent or legal guardian must authorize your use.

2. What the Bot does

The Bot processes messages from a configured Rust Console kill-feed channel to calculate player kills, deaths, current kill streaks, and best kill streaks. It can import available message history and export statistics as CSV files.

Statistics reflect messages the Bot can access and successfully interpret. They are not an official record from Discord, Kaos, or the game publisher. The Bot does not currently issue automated rewards.

3. Server administrator responsibilities

You may install or configure the Bot only in servers you are authorized to manage.

Server administrators must provide appropriate permissions, identify the correct kill-feed channel, and inform affected members about the Bot’s tracking and Privacy Policy. Administrators must restrict access to commands, reports, and exported files as appropriate.

Installing the Bot does not override users’ privacy rights.

4. Acceptable use

Users and administrators must comply with applicable laws, Discord’s Terms of Service and Community Guidelines, and applicable third-party rules.

You must not use the Bot to harass people, disclose private information without authorization, manipulate records deceptively, bypass access controls, or disrupt Discord or the Bot.

Exported statistics must be used only for authorized server administration and related gameplay purposes consistent with the Privacy Policy.

5. Data and privacy

The Privacy Policy explains what information the Bot processes, how it is stored and shared, its retention, and how users can request access, correction, or deletion.

Submit privacy requests through the support contact listed above. We may request reasonable information to identify the relevant records and verify your request.

Removing the Bot from a server stops its future access to that server but does not itself erase previously stored records. Contact the operator to request deletion.

6. Accuracy and availability

Missing or deleted messages, unreported deaths, player name changes, configuration errors, server wipes, outages, and parsing limitations can affect results.

Do not rely solely on the Bot's statistics when issuing rewards, penalties, or other significant decisions. Administrators should review disputed results.

Continuous availability, complete records, and error-free operation are not guaranteed.

7. Changes and termination

The operator may update, suspend, or discontinue the Bot, or restrict access for misuse, security concerns, or legal and platform compliance.

Administrators may remove the Bot at any time. Users may stop using it and request deletion as described in the Privacy Policy.

Material changes to these Terms will be announced through the Bot's support channel or another accessible notice. The effective date will be updated.

8. Disclaimer and liability

To the extent permitted by law, the Bot is provided "as is" and "as available," without warranties of accuracy, uninterrupted availability, or suitability for a particular purpose.

To the extent permitted by law, the operator is not liable for indirect or consequential losses resulting from use of the Bot, including decisions based on inaccurate statistics. Nothing in these Terms excludes liability or rights that cannot legally be excluded.

9. Independent service

RCE Kill Tracker is independently operated and is not affiliated with or endorsed by Discord, Kaos, or the Rust game publishers.

These Terms are between you and the operator. Discord is not responsible for the Bot or these Terms. These Terms do not replace or override Discord's applicable terms or policies.
